Cardiology

Cardiologists specialize in finding, treating and preventing diseases of the heart and blood vessels. An interventional cardiologist is trained in internal medicine with several additional years of training in cardiology. They specialize in diagnosing and treating cardiovascular disease, as well as congenital and structural heart conditions, through catheter-based procedures, such as angioplasty and stenting. Procedures may also involve device-based therapies like loop recorders, pacemakers and ICDs.

Family Medicine

Primary Care Providers (PCP) attend to your general healthcare needs. You will benefit from a long-term relationship with a PCP who knows your medical background and understands what's important to you. Traditionally PCPs fall into three specialties–Family Medicine (treating patients of all ages), Internal Medicine (treating adult patients) and Pediatrics (treating children).

Primary care includes:

- Diagnosis and Treatment of Illnesses and Injuries
- Routine exams
- Counseling
- Preventive Care

Oncology/Radiation

Radiation Oncologists are members of the oncology team who treat cancer with radiation therapy. About 50 to 60 percent of cancer patients receive radiation at some time during their treatment. Located on the first floor of the Medical Office Building, the Radiation Oncology Center offers easy access to a wide range of radiation services including intensity modulated radiation therapy (IMRT), three-dimensional treatment planning, stereotactic body radiation therapy (SBRT) and brachytherapy (internal radiation).

Memorial provides some of the most advanced radiation technologies available today:

- CyberKnife® robotic radiosurgery system for certain types of brain, spine, lung, abdominal and pelvic tumors; one of only a few in the state
- TrueBeam® linear accelerator with image-guided radiation therapy (IGRT) and intensity-modulated radiation therapy (IMRT) to deliver radiation therapy with greater precision in less time
- High-dose radiation (HDR) unit for internal radiation
